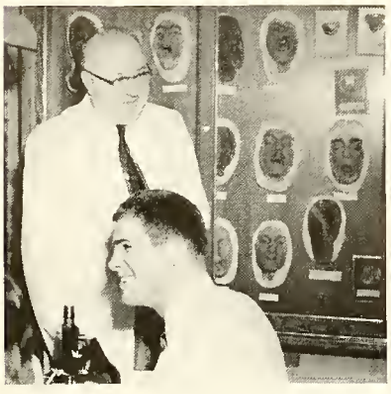
Dedication



Myron S. Aisenberg, D.D.S., F.A.C.D.

A review of the illustrious history of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery reveals the names of many prominent graduates. We in the Class of 1955 are fortunate to have known the era in which one such outstanding alumnus has attained the pinnacle of his career. Each step taken by Dr. Myron S. Aisenberg on his progress to academic and professional success has been marked by long years of diligent study and deep devotion to his teaching endeavors and research in the interest of helping mankind.

Dr. Aisenberg has been an inspiration to us. He has provided for us meritorious instruction and congenial guidance. His smile, friendliness and warm interest in all the students will be long remembered by us.

Through his efforts, the Dental School is now entering a transition phase, from which it will emerge with increased physical facilities for both undergraduate and postgraduate curricula, and with an expanded capacity for investigative research.

We of the Senior Class recognize the privilege afforded us in having Dr. Myron S. Aisenberg as teacher, Dean and friend. We thank him both individually and as a body, by dedicating this, our yearbook, to him.

A Message to the Seniors

By dint of hard work and concentrated effort your day of days has arrived. Through your efforts you have achieved stature. Be ever grateful to your immediate families whose many sacrifices and moral support have aided you in attaining your goal. Be ever mindful of the guidance of your teachers who have acted as catalysts to crystallize in you the education for your professional career.

You owe much to organized dentistry which has paved the way for you in education, organization and research. Become affiliated with your local and national dental societies. Become a loyal alumnus of your alma mater.

You are now the youth of dentistry and later the future of your profession will rest on your shoulders.

We wish you to carry on with our best wishes.

M. S. Aisenberg

Distinguished Graduates

(This is the fourth in a series)

ROBERT ARTHUR

First Graduate of the B. C. D. S.

As the first graduate of a dental college, Dr. Robert Arthur achieved a firm place in the history of dentistry. Dr. Arthur also made a prominent place for himself in the history of his profession by his later accomplishments in the fields of dental organization, dental education and dental literature. He contributed greatly to the progress of dentistry and deserves the wide recognition that has been given him as an outstanding figure in dentistry.

Born in Calverton, near Baltimore, on July 22, 1819, Arthur received his early education at private schools in Baltimore. By diligent reading and studying he mastered many of the classics that were considered essential to an educated man at that time. At the age of fifteen years, he was thrown upon his own resources and became apprenticed to a printer. Through his brother, T. S. Arthur, Robert became acquainted with many literary and professional men in Baltimore, among whom was Dr. Chapin A. Harris, a founder of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery. The meeting between these two men altered profoundly the life of Robert Arthur, for it was through the efforts of Dr. Harris that Arthur became interested in dentistry and was persuaded to make it his life's work.

Arthur entered the first class of B.C.D.S. in the fall of 1840, and was graduated at its first commencement exercises, on March 9, 1841, along with R. Covington Mackall. Since Arthur's name received alphabetical preference, to him goes the distinction of being the first man to receive the degree, "Doctor of Dental Surgery." The diplomas of both these men are now exhibited in the museum of the School.

Following graduation, Dr. Arthur practiced in Baltimore for five years and then moved to Philadelphia. He became a member of the American Society of Dental Surgeons in 1841. Dr. Arthur helped organize the Pennsylvania Association of Dental Surgery in 1845, and served as its first corresponding secretary. The main purpose of the Association was to establish a dental school in Philadelphia as a counterpart of the B.C.D.S. Unfortunately, because of corruption in the state Legislature, the Association was unable to obtain a charter until 1852, at which time the Philadelphia College of Dental Surgery was founded. Dr. Arthur became chairman of the Department of Principles of Dental Surgery. Difficulty ensued, however, when the Corporators attempted to confer honorary degrees on men unworthy of them. The faculty succeeded in obtaining a new charter and at the end of the fourth session resigned in protest and founded the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery. Dr. Arthur served as dean during the final year of the old Philadelphia College, and for the first year of the new Pennsylvania College, after which he resigned and returned to Baltimore. Here he became engaged in organizing the Maryland Dental Association, and was elected its president in 1866. He was elected president of the Southern Dental Association in 1873. Dr. Robert Arthur died on June 22, 1880, in Baltimore.

An important contribution of Dr. Arthur to dental literature was a translation from the French of Blandin's Anatomy of the Dental System. It was published by the American Society of Dental Surgeons in 1845 as part of the American Library of Dental Science. His other writings included pioneer treatises on treatment of dental caries, dental pulp, professional patents, and the use of gold foil.

Dr. Arthur's greatest addition to scientific dentistry was his discovery of the welding properties of annealed gold foil and the subsequent development of a technique for using this material to restore teeth. The gold foil restoration to this day fulfills most ideally Black's primary requirements. Dr. Arthur made this historic discovery by accident. A book of foil he was using became hard and unmanageable due to repeated handling. On heating the gold to soften it he noticed, much to his amazement, that the pieces cohered.

In recognition of his writings and other professional contributions, Dr. Arthur was elected a corresponding member of the Odontological Society of Great Britain. The honorary degree of Doctor of Medicine was conferred on him by the Maryland College of Medicine, of Baltimore.

Dr. Arthur initiated the proud tradition of the B.C.D.S. Succeeding generations have carried it high, and multiplied it, until today, when we enter the dental profession, each takes with him part of the spirit that was Robert Arthur. The searching mind, the skilled hand, and the will to help humanity: this is our heritage.

Sergeant-at-Arms: Roberto G. Tassinari

The pages of this book will serve as a graphic record of our dental school days; their value will increase with the years ahead. During the past four years we have made a great investment in time and effort. Many of us have been able to attend school only because of considerable sacrifice and with a measure of personal inconvenience and hardship. At times we have been tempted to give up our effort, but in spite of many vicissitudes we have come to the successful completion of our objective.

Our academic program has been the main college objective, and we are indebted to the faculty for their enduring patience with us. Often situations arise which are as trying for them as they are for us. However, the academic is only a part of the education which we have received. Our informal associations with fellow students, with the faculty, and with other members of the community have provided us with educational experience, valuable and important in our preparation for a happy, useful life.

Coincident with our entrance into the profession, we accept innumerable responsibilities. People must put themselves unquestioningly in our hands. We must be worthy of that trust. In dentistry there is the joy of accomplishment, the feeling of personal satisfaction. We may compare ourselves with the engineer who accomplishes a difficult feat, or the artist who surveys his completed canvas and finds that it is good. If we allow this sense of pride and obligation to follow us throughout the years of our dental practices, our financial reward will necessarily ensue.

From our Commencement Day we can move on and develop, for Commencement does not signify the conclusion of four years of specialized training and education, the end of a long duration of arduous labor. Rather Commencement means the beginning, and truly it is. We are entering society as capable public servants. Our lives should be in constant motion not only towards a greater future for ourselves but also for the people around us. For we, the moulded but yet unfinished product of the B.C.D.S., are the potential of the dental profession.

Honorary President

OF THE

Class of 1955

DR. KENNETH V. RANDOLPH

The Class of 1955 has extended to Dr. Kenneth V. Randolph the honor of becoming its Honorary Class President. Upon what basis is such an honor conferred? Each Senior who cast his ballot for Dr. Randolph had his own personal reason for so doing. Whatever one's reason might have been we are all cognizant of the fact that Dr. Randolph has earned the highest respect from each of us: respect for his knowledge of dentistry, respect for his ability to perform dentistry, and respect for his ability to teach dentistry. Through his determinate influence and tutelage he has imparted to us a high degree of proficiency in all phases of operative dentistry.

Dr. Randolph has treated us with equality and fairness. His standards are high, so high as to be somewhat frustrating at times. In the future we shall look back and appreciate the lofty standards which were set for us, for if we adhere to them we shall profit by them in many ways.

For these reasons and undoubtedly divers others which have not been educed, the Class of 1955 proclaims you, Dr. Randolph, its Honorary President, and extends its heartiest congratulations.

Two long years at B.C.D.S. had passed when this year began, and we finally received with mixed emotion what we had anticipated for the entire period. It was the reality of operating on our own patients, seemingly the beginning of a new world. Even the prospect of carrying our heavy, overloaded instrument cases into the clinic to search for a scarce, highly coveted chair did not daunt us in the least.

We were soon to realize the great complexities of our new world. After we had inserted our first five amalgams, we developed confidence in ourselves; however, we dreaded the moment when we would be tested for our real dexterity, the completion of a Class III foil. All of our time could not be devoted to worrying about gold foils, since some of it had to be allotted to solving the mystery of what caused us to get positive cultures on our root canals, although we sterilized our hands in the molten metal sterilizer.

Nevertheless, with all our trials and tribulations, the days passed into weeks, and we entered the final year of our education at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery.

After woefully licking the wounds received during the freshman year, the Sophomore Class returned to the B.C.D.S. to let all know we had survived. From the new freshmen we intended to demand respect; from the upperclassmen we expected acceptance as fellow students.

We did not, however, expect to be so busy in our sophomore year. We were introduced to all the myriad wonders of bacterial infection, cavity preparation, heart action, foil condensation, and denture construction. In addition, there was still much preparation for lecture exams and laboratory reports. It seemed as if there would never be enough time, but somehow there always was.

As the year passed by we gradually became more conscious of the fact that soon we would be working in the clinics. National Board Examinations showed some of us that we hadn't learned as much as we thought we had. By the time that our Sophomore Dance was history, we had nearly reached the half-way mark in our career in dental school. We gratefully realized that our foundation was a strong one, upon which we would add new clinical experience.

How does one person cease to be an individual and become a member of the Freshman Class? What is the amalgamating factor which binds so many persons of such varied backgrounds into one cohesive group? Perhaps it is the spirit of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, the spirit of its students all motivated by one action, all aspiring to attain one goal.

How is this union attained? The Freshmen found one aspect of this union in the laboratories and lecture rooms, as we worked side by side carving finger impressions, running a carbohydrate unknown, tracing nerves of the brachial plexus, and searching, sometimes futilely, for a monoblast.

Still another feature was found on October 6 at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel, when we were welcomed socially by the rest of the student body at the annual Student Mixer. As the year wore on, we began to feel more and more bound to this Union. We were rushed by the various fraternities and became an integral part of the social life instituted by these fraternities and the other classes.

A third aspect was made evident by the attitude of the instructors in their willingness to help us attain the goals that they have already achieved.

And so, as our first year has reached its finale, the members of the Freshman Class have found what it means to be . . . a Dental Student!

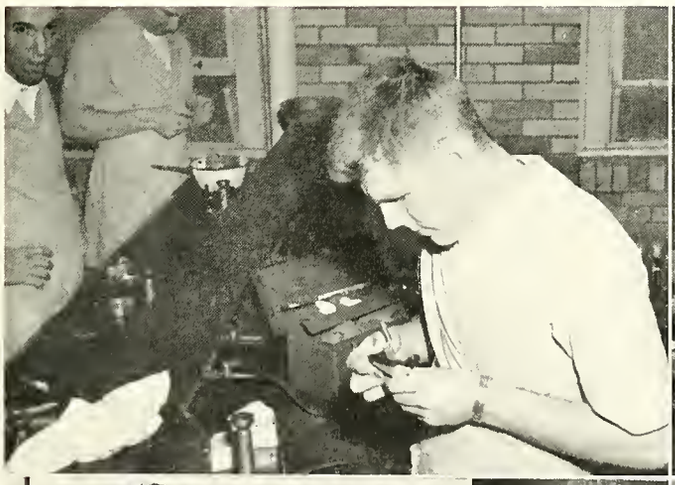
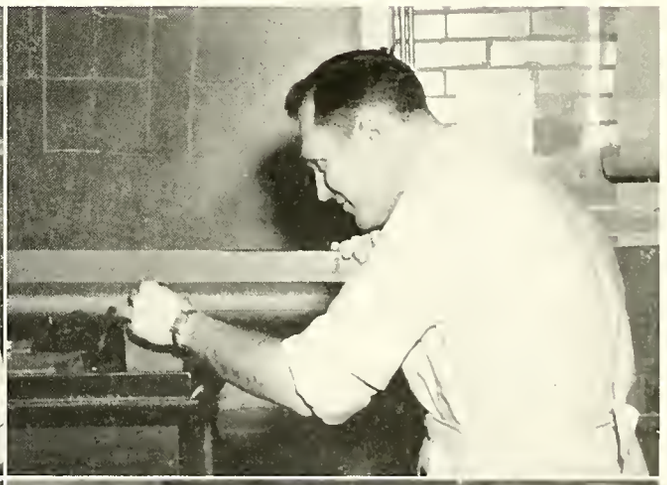
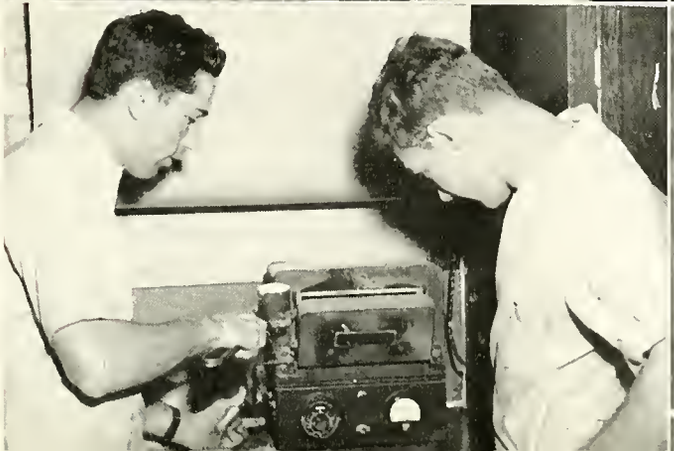
Candid Shots







OucH!

Obnoxious oral odors
Cavities galore;
Teeth are getting looser;
Can't lose many more.

Lamellated dentin,
Enamel chipped and scarred;
All my molars missing
Makes chewing mighty hard.

Pyorrhea pockets plenty,
Gums receded bad:
It's really fun to reminisce
About the teeth I had.

A lot of etched enamel,
Remaining just a shell;
Inner structures rotted,
Tooth's as sore as hell.

I fight a losing battle,
Enough to make me squirm
With tiny microscopic rods,
Lactobacillus germ.

Bicuspids barely biting,
Cause apprehensive mood;
At every meal I'm scared to death
They'll go down with my food.

A visit to my dentist
Who's unmoved at my fate;
One look into his gloating eye,
"I know, I need a plate!"

Troubles, troubles, troubles,
Enough to make a cynic
Especially since I have a chair
In Maryland's dental clinic.

THE LIFE OF MAN

"Man, born of woman, is of few days and no teeth. And, indeed, it would be money in his pocket sometimes if he had less of either. As for his days, he wasteth one-third of them, and as for his teeth, he has convulsions when he cuts them, and as the last ones come through, lo! the dentist is twisting the first one out, and the last end of that man's jaw is worse than the first, being full of porcelain and a roof-plate built to hold blackberry seeds."

CURE FOR THE TOOTHACHE

Those of you who have patients that have writhed and groaned under the torture of an aching tooth, will, we doubt not, read with pleasure the following "sure cure": "Get a kettle of water—let it come to a boil, then put your head into it and let simmer for precisely half an hour; take out your head and shake all your teeth into a heap; pick out the decayed ones and throw them away. The sound ones you can put back again."

FINAL FINISH

An itinerant student of the B.C.D.S. has solved the mystery attending the failure of so many fillings, in a manner quite original and unique. He had filled a certain cavity in the tooth of one of his patients for the third or fourth time within the same number of months, the filling having come out each time. The previous operation having been performed with amalgam he determined to try gold; so having first capped the "nerve" he proceeded to place within the tooth that magic auriferous metal. The operation finished, the patient departed for home, but on reaching her dwelling place, discovered to her dismay that the gold filling was loose, so immediately retraced her steps to find out the cause of this new trouble. After a careful examination of the cavity and filling, by mirror and magnifying glass, the "doctor" then delivered his opinion in the following manner: "Madam, this tooth will have to be extracted, for it is utterly impossible to fill it, as the pulsations of the nerve are so great and powerful that it knocks the filling out!"

SEARS ROEBUCK STYLE

Dr. Ramsey recently received by mail an order for a set of teeth, which read as follows: "My mouth is three inches across, five eighths inches through the jaw; sum hummocky on the edge; shaped like a horseshoe, toe forward. If you want me to be more partiklar, I shall have to come thar."

SECOND HAND TEETH

Of all the odd trades in Baltimore City, that unearthed by a Sun reporter the other day is the most peculiar. On a sidewalk stand on Baltimore Street, below Calvert, a shrewd dealer had displayed a heap of second-hand artificial teeth. In reply to an inquiry he said, "Yes; at times I sell a great many sets of these teeth. Where I mostly get them is at pawnbrokers' sales. I buy them for 10, 20 or 30 cents, and sell them sometimes for $3. I have had old men and old women—poor people, of course—walk up to my stand, pick out a set, examine them, try them, and immediately purchase, saying that they were fitted better than a dentist could suit them. An old man purchased an upper set from me last winter, and he was so well pleased with them that he brought his wife here last week to get a set. I had none at the time, and he promised to call this week. A person might as well save a few dollars in buying teeth as in any other way. Take them home, wash them, and they are just as good as new—in fact, better, for they have been 'broken in'."

RECIPROCITY

His gold her "aching void" did fill,
Her gold, his own, forsooth—
His cavity was in his purse;
She had one in her tooth.

AFFECTIONATELY, DENTISTRY

His arm was round my shoulder laid,
He pressed my head against his breast;
I sighed, but not a word was said—
I heard his watch tick thro' his vest.
His fingers firm upon my cheek
Still at his will compelled my face;
I only felt, I could not speak,
Fast fettered in that close embrace.
Pain racked, sore tried, I fain would flee,
His voice my futile struggles stilled—
"Ah! Just a little patience—see?"
I rise—I smile—my front tooth's filled.

AYE, AYE, IN CHINA THEY NEVER EAT CHILI

There was an old maid from Trenton;
She dropped her false teeth and she bent 'em;
She remarks, "I don't care
For the wear and the tear;
They're not mine, nohow, I just rent 'em."

THE ETERNAL OUTGO

I thought we'd buy a car this year,
We had our plans all made;
But as it happens now, I fear,
The deal will be delayed.
I'd scraped together the amount,
But yesterday I found
I'd have to rob my bank account
To get three molars crowned.
We shall not go to Panama
As we had hoped to do,
Nor see the festive Mardi Gras;
Our plans are all askew.
No more for us the merry life,
Our touring days are done;
It happens that my gentle wife
Must have some bridge work done.

Sun (A) shines through window (B), through magnifying glass (C), to a mirror (D), and is reflected to gold foil rope, annealing it. Pipe conducts steam from Cliff's coffee brewer (E), and is emitted at valve (F). Steam pressure strikes inclined plane (G), raising it, and causes foil rope (H) to slide down inclined plane. Foil is cut into pellets by guillotine (I), which is operated by drops of water on a rubber tambour (J). Pellets drop into funnel (K) and are blown into Class III preparation by electric fan (L). Foil is condensed by goldpecker (noble relative of woodpecker).

Disadvantages:

1. Must be used on sunny days only.
2. Senior must consume large quantities of Cliff's coffee to operate inclined plane by steam produced in brewing.
3. Goldpeckers are almost extinct. In fact, you hardly get them no more.

A FEW NEW TEETH

The dentist tinkered day by day,
With wax and sticky gum.
He built a model out of clay
And shaped it with his thumb.
He made the man a lovely plate,
With three teeth in a row,
And bars of gold to keep them straight,
Then said: "They'll never show."

"Go forth," the dentist told the man.
"As proud as you can be.
Those teeth are perfect. No one can
Tell they were bought from me.
Why I, by whom the work was wrought,
The truth had never known.
Were you a stranger I'd have thought
Those teeth were all your own."

While going out he bumped a Miss.
"Excuthe me pleathe," he said.
The lady smiled to hear him hiss.
His cheeks went flaming red.
He met a friend upon the street,
Who joined him for a walk
And said: "Let's go where we can eat,
And have a quiet talk."

"I'd rather walk," the main exclaimed.
"Leth thtay upon the threet,
For with you I thould be athamed
Thum tholid food to eat."
"New teeth?" the friend remarked, and lo
Then the troubled man said: "Yeth!
My dentith thwore you'd never know.
However did you gueth?"

Preparation for dowel crown under rubber dam.
Strib as governor of Mississippi.
Freedom of speech.
No more B.C.D.S.
A confessional booth in K. R.'s office.
A chair for every student.
Good lectures.
Putting $$ in your pocket instead of handing it to someone else.
Moderate prices at the dental dealers.
Government ban on rubber dam.
Foil in the sweepings in the clinic.
Not walking eight miles a day to accomplish a Class II amalgam.
Cancelling a patient for a fishing trip.
The 201's consumed in our four years of headaches, etc.
A modern laboratory.
Plenty of stone.
No more exams.

"WHO SAID THAT?"

This is a short questionnaire to determine whether you have spent your time in school sleeping or just looked that way. See how many of the following "gems of wisdom" you can attribute to their rightful owners. Rate yourself as follows:

22-24—Gold Medal Man
18-22—Takes "No-doze".
14-18—Sleeps with eyes open.
0-14—Candidate for "Sagrog".

1. "Hm, hm. Can you hear me back there?"
2. "Gentlemen, it is a tragedy!"
3. "All right, Beecher, take a walk! Take a walk!"
4. "We do not like for you to do that."
5. "Plenty seats at Hippodrome."
6. "Now here's an interesting organism."
7. "Just got back from the O.R."
8. "As of 10:22 A.M. its etiology is still unknown."
9. "Even the gods must falter."
10. "What do you want now, Ace?"
11. "Pemphigus? Yes, that's possible."
12. "Speak to my mother at the desk."
13. "Please don't tinkle your test tubes."
14. "That's malpractice dentistry."
15. "Didn't you see the demonstration?"
16. "That restoration is nothing to write home about."
17. "You mean it has more horsepower than the Lincoln?"
18. "Take a 201, Son."
19. "Roll 'em, doctor."
20. "That's on page 79 in Cunningham, page 60 in Grant, 493 in Morris, and 669 in Gray."
21. "Here's one I heard this morning."
22. "An eighth of a piece of sticky wax should be enough."
23. "Developmentally, developmentally, histologically, histologically, etc., etc."
24. "It looks like schmutz pyorrhea."
25. "As I say——."

Answers:

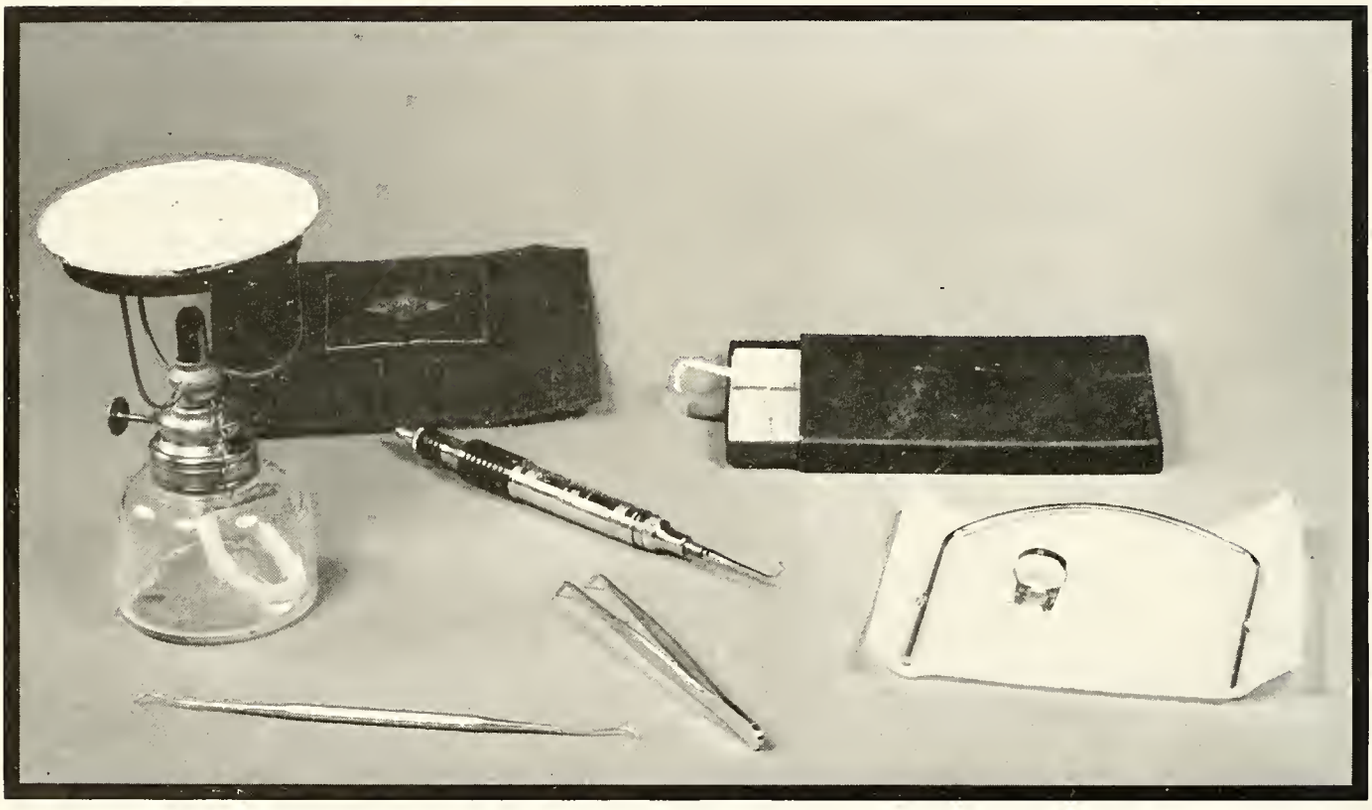
Lest We Forget



Class Will

We, the Class of 1955, do hereby bequeath to:

Dean Aisenberg—A suitcase packed with structures of the neck with which nothing is wrong.

Dr. Dobbs—A case of Trigesic; a case of Trigesic.

Dr. Shay—Seventeen old Dragnet recordings and sixteen tubes of interesting organisms.

Dr. Dosh—Stereophonic, high fidelity diverticulitis.

Dr. Vanden Bosche—The park in which Beecher was to take a walk.

Dr. Randolph—The Comstock lode, uncontaminated.

Dr. Cappuccio—An application to the home for old minstrel men.

Dr. Hahn—A bigger searchlight for finding sleepers.

Dr. Medina—All the pellets of foil that fell out while getting the triangular bars started.

Dr. Nuttall—A solid concrete office in which to do good, solid dentistry.

Dr. Louie—All of our leftover rubber dam and a season ticket to the Hippodrome.

Dr. Ehrlich—Trumpet lip salve.

Dr. Gaver—Our bite blocks on which we missed centric.

Dr. Ramsey—All the dentures on which we missed centric.

Dr. Williamson—All the partials on which we missed centric.

Dr. Warner—A P.A. system and a glass-topped desk.

Dr. Gaver, C. J., and Dr. Biddington—Gift Certificates for crew cuts at Benny and Joe's.

Dr. Dorsey—An honorary tennis match judge's certificate.

Dr. Ogden—102's. (Spelled backwards, you know what!)

TO ALL—Our Gratitude.

About The Cover

The color of our yearbook, lilac, is the emblematic color of dentistry. In 1894 the Intercollegiate Commission, composed of the presidents and trustees of universities, met at Harvard University to discuss the colors adopted by certain professions and select colors for those that had no color emblem.

All this was done with reference to the ideas of a manufacturer of caps and gowns who originated the idea that a color in the binding in the hood of the gowns would indicate the profession to which the wearer belonged or the degree which he held. The consensus at that meeting was that lilac should be the symbolic color of dentistry.

How did the idea come to be accepted by our profession? Mr. Gardner C. Leonard, who conceived the idea at Harvard, presented it to the meeting of the National Association of Dental Faculties in Saratoga in the year 1896. On motion of Dr. Thomas E. Fillebrown a committee of three was appointed to select and recommend a distinctive color for the trimming of academic costumes for the dental degree. The committee recommended the standard lilac as a distinctive dental color, and, on motion, the committee's report was adopted. Lilac thus became the representative color of the dental profession.

A Tip for Better Prophylaxis

PY-CO-TIP

The tip developed as the ideal for stimulation of interproximal spaces

Two years of research and extensive investigation went into the development of Py-co-tip. The high quality rubber is finely balanced for flexibility and stiffness to stimulate blood flow in the gingival areas. Py-co-tip is preferred by more dentists than any other brush-affixed stimulator.

THESE FEATURES MAKE PY-CO-PAY WIDELY ACCEPTED

- Straight, rigid design
- Small, compact head
- Bristles uniformly trimmed
- Proper tuft spacing
- Scientifically designed tip

For effective cleansing, massage and stimulation, prescribe

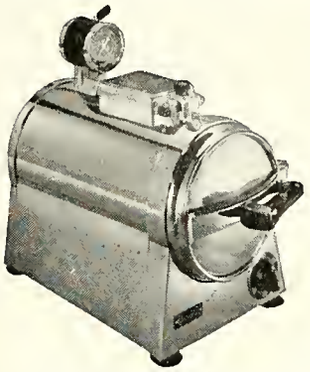
Castle General Vision light. Special reflector gives diffuse room illumination. Adjusts for all ceilings.



Castle "777" Speed-Clave. Instruments, needles, gloves, compresses sterilized dry, ready to use. Faster than boiling. Fully automatic.

Castle PANOVISION. Clear, non-glaring light for intra-oral vision. Reduces shadow and glare.

This equipment helps you start your practice . . . and keep it growing

This combination of Castle lights and sterilizers helps you do the best possible job for your patients . . . and yourself.

PANOVISION reduces eye-strain and fatigue. Makes work easier and your day less tiring. General Vision light gives balanced illumination to your entire office. Cuts out annoying contrast between bright work area and rest of room.

New "777" Speed-Clave gives you autoclave safety at a price you can afford. Safer, quicker, and easier than boiling.

Try Us—It Is Worth While

Co-operative— is CLOSER to you— Because—

We Know Your Problems—

42 years' experience in serving the dental profession enables us to understand what is required in a prosthetic restoration to assure you a pleased patient who recommends your services.

Our Planning Saves You Chair Time—

Each problem posed by your case is solved by a man who knows — he has been thoroughly trained to know. Precision surveying, designing and processing, combined with extra procedures used, substantially reduce the necessity for adjustments and remakes and save you time at the chair.

We Meet Your Most Exacting Requirements—

Few dental laboratories in all the world are so completely equipped in the range of facilities, scientific proficiency and competent technical specialists to produce precision prosthetic restorations. You can be sure that Co-operative will meet your most difficult specifications.

A Few Words About

COLUMBIA DENTOFORMS . . .

From a humble start 35 years ago, Columbia Dentoforms have played an increasingly important role in dental education. Today, every dental student in the United States and Canada "cuts" his first teeth on Columbia Dentoforms, for we supply Dentoforms to every dental college in the United States and Canada, as well as in many other lands.

In these 35 years, there have been many improvements and additions to Dentoforms to meet the ever more exacting demands of teachers. Today, Dentoforms number more than a thousand and present conditions that the student will encounter in practice. And in graduate years, Dentoforms continue to help clinicians in postgraduate education and to help the busy practitioner in his endless task of patient-education by showing the better dentistry he seeks to give.
